The Craft features twelve artists whose work draws heavily on the crafts tradition and incorporates craft techniques into fine art. The exhibition includes Ruth Laskey's geometric illusions are created by hand dying threads and adding them to her woven linen compositions. Zoe Sheehan Saldaña meticulously imitates real objects and exhibits them as sculpture - the exhibition includes her life jackets (which actually float), twine, and a match carved from wood and painted with chemicals that make it "strike anywhere." Siebren Versteeg digitally manipulates fragments of particle board that appear to shrink into infinity in the center of a 4 by 8 foot sheet. The sheet is a digital print rather than an actual particle board. Marie Lorenz builds boats - her 14-foot kayak includes the skyline of Manhattan and Brooklyn on the sides and sits on a pedestal in the exhibition.
